Mass Media: Grades 9, 10, 11, 12

Adopted 2020

Narrative Storytelling

- 1. Read and interact with a variety of media from journalistic outlets and read other texts related to media within a range of complexity appropriate for grades 9-12 that include possibilities for analysis of literary techniques, structure and style. By the end of this course, students interact with media and texts proficiently and independently at the low end of the range and with scaffolding as needed at the high end of the range. MS.1

Key Ideas and Textual Support

1. Analyze what a product says explicitly and implicitly as well as inferences and interpretations drawn from the media product through citing evidence determining where the product leaves matters uncertain. MS.2.1
2. Compare and contrast the development of similar themes across two or more media products and analyze how they emerge and are shaped and refined by specific details. MS.2.2
3. Analyze how the producer's choices impact subject development over the course of a media product. MS.2.3
4. Students are expected to build upon and continue applying concepts learned previously. MS.2.4
4. Make predictions about the context of text using prior knowledge of text features, explaining whether they were confirmed or not confirmed and why and be able to utilize and continue the skills. GM2.MS.2.4

Structural Elements and Organization

1. Analyze and evaluate how a producer's choices concerning how to structure specific parts of a media product contribute to its overall meaning and effect. MS.3.1
2. Analyze a media product in which the audience must distinguish between what is directly stated and what is intended in order to understand the perspectives. MS.3.2

Synthesis and Connection of Ideas

1. Analyze multiple interpretations or adaptations of a story and evaluate how each version interprets the original source and the impact of the interpretations on the audience. MS.4.1
 2. Analyze and evaluate media of historical or cultural significance and how two or more media products treat similar themes, conflicts, issues, or topics, and maintain relevance for current audiences. MS.4.2

Nonfiction

- 1. Read a variety of nonfiction media from journalistic outlets and read other texts related to media within a range of complexity appropriate for grades 9-12 that include possibilities for analysis of literary techniques, structure and style. By the end of this course, students interact with media products and texts proficiently and independently at the low end of the range and with scaffolding as needed at the high end of the range. MN.1

Key Ideas and Textual Support

1. Analyze what a nonfiction media product says explicitly as well as inferences and interpretations drawn from the piece, including determining where the piece leaves matters uncertain by citing strong and thorough facts from observations, quotations, and specific details. MN2.1
2. Analyze the development of similar central ideas across two or more media products and determine how specific details shape and refine the central idea. MN.2.2
3. Analyze a complex set of ideas or sequence of events and explain how specific ideas, facts, events, or individuals develop throughout the product. MN.2.3

Key Structural Elements and Organization

1. Students are expected to build upon and continue applying concepts learned previously. MN.3.1
1. Apply knowledge of text features in multiple print and digital sources to locate information, gain meaning from a text, or solve a problem. GM5.MN.3.1
2. Analyze and evaluate the effectiveness of the structure used in a persuasive argument including whether the structure makes points that are clear, convincing, and engaging. MN.3.2
3. Determine perspective or purpose in a piece of media in which the rhetoric is particularly effective. Analyze how style and content contribute to the power and persuasiveness of the media product (e.g. appeals to both friendly and hostile audiences and anticipates and addresses audience's concerns and counterclaims). MN.3.3

Synthesis and Connection of Ideas

1. Delineate and evaluate the arguments and specific claims in U.S. and world media, assessing whether the reasoning is valid and the evidence is relevant and sufficient; analyze the impact of false statements and fallacious reasoning (e.g. misinformation/disinformation, copyright, libel/slander, plagiarism, privacy, First Amendment). MN.4.1
 2. Synthesize and evaluate multiple sources of information presented in different mediums in order to address a question or solve a problem. MN.4.2
 3. Analyze and synthesize foundational U.S. and world documents, such as the First Amendment and relevant case law, for their themes, purposes and rhetorical features. MN.4.3
